Today was the 65th anniversary of our school. They invited many graduated students back to school to celebrate, including my grandpa and grandma. When we arrived at school, Grandpa and Grandma met their old classmates and they had a nice chat with them. I walked to the school hall, I saw a lot of old photos about our school history. That was really interesting.

Unexpectedly, my superpower went out of control and I went through a time tunnel. I was sent back to my school's very first day when it opened 65 years ago. I stood in front of the school but no one could see me because I was invisible. There weren't any tall buildings around the school. The roads were used to be less crowded because there were fewer cars. There were a lot of green trees so the air was fresh. I could hear the birds singing on the trees, just like a beautiful painting.

And then. I walked into school and saw many students dressed tidily. They also talked to the teachers politely. I went upstairs to one of the classrooms. I found out there were no air conditioners or computers. There was only one fan in the classroom, it's very hot. The teacher used the chalk to write so there's a lot of dust. All students were paying attention to the teacher intently.

Five minutes later, the teacher and the students were standing at me. The teacher shouted, 'Who are you? You are not like the students in our school.' I realized that my invisible superpower didn't work, so I ran away immediately. Suddenly, I bumped into someone surprisingly, that's my young grandpa! I spoke to him in panic, 'Please take me to a place, where there is no one!' He nodded and told me to follow him. He took me to the library.

I took a deep breath and explained, 'I am from the future, I know this is ridiculous but I'm telling the truth!' The boy answered with a smile, 'I trust you!' I gave him a big hug and disappeared.

I travelled through time and returned back to the present. I saw my grandpa was waiting for me in the library I sat next to him and he told me a secret, 'I met a girl from the future when I was a kid in this library. However, I cannot remember her face, I know this is ridiculous but I am telling the truth.' I replied at once, 'I trust you.' We laughed together.
